

FROZEN OVER

SANDRA MAGNUS DRAFTED ONTO THE SOUTH END CELEBS

Sandra Magnus, engineer and astronaut, knows how important temperature regulation is during a space flight. A woman of science, she never put much stock in the supernatural, and she never expected the repercussions of angering someone with magic at their disposal. So when a witch hexed Sandra and her crew with a nasty snowstorm the day of launch, their equipment froze over and her final mission into space was almost aborted. But by decoding each snowflake and arranging them in the most thermodynamically beneficial way, she was able to save the mission in time.

